

VIRTUOSO COMMUNITY

Arabian nights and Virtuoso advisors' short list for 2015 getaways.

INTERNATIONAL EVENTS Adventures in Arabia

Recently, executives from 70 of Virtuoso's top travel agencies around the globe got to experience Dubai and Abu Dhabi during the tenth annual Chairman's Event, a recognition trip where attendees learn first-hand about the host destination's diverse offerings.

Virtuoso's Michael Londregan and wife Kellie flank agency executives Cher Roscoe, Roger Hudson, and Claudia Rossi Hudson. Center: Sheikh Zayed Grand Mosque. Right: The Burj Al Arab hotel welcomes Virtuoso.

The 2015 Go List

Destinations on Australian Virtuoso advisors' radar for the new year.

"Baker Lake in Canada's Northwest Territories. Its Inuit community continues to hunt and gather; some still live in igloos."

— Amit Holckner

"South America, especially Machu Picchu, has everything one could want in a destination. Seeing history upfront and the spectacular scenery is incredible."

— Amy Wasbutzki

"For 2015 we're seeing river-cruise business really peak in Europe. Also, Mexico from the Australian market is very popular at the moment; Australians are looking for something different that they haven't explored yet, and access, especially to Mexico, is much easier now."

— Tina Killeen

"After just returning from an amazing trip through France (from Paris to the French Riviera by luxury car), that region is definitely back on my radar. Australians love their food and wine, and I was amazed at how many Michelin-starred restaurants are in those wonderful châteaux and castles."

— Lisa Allan

"The Tekeli Cave Suite is my favourite room at the Museum Hotel. Soaking in its Jacuzzi with views over the valley is surreal. Don't leave without trying the restaurant's kavun dolması, a delicious rice pilaf served in a melon that offers the salty-sweet combination Ottoman cuisine is known for."
